

Good People Everywhere

2013 Teacher's Choice Award — Children's Book

A soothing story to help children become mindful of the beautiful, caring people in the world.

In Remembrance by Lynea Gillen

Hello Everyone,

I remember the day I sat with students on 9/11 many years ago. It was difficult to know how to respond to their fears and their questions.

What I do remember is that it was helpful for them to focus on all the people that were helping after the tragedy. Hearing about the firemen, the policemen, the nurses and doctors helped them balance their fear about people doing bad things. I created a new book, Good People Everywhere, to help develop this awareness in children. Yes, tragedy happens, but there are millions and millions of people who are good and are willing to help!

There are two activities in the book that help children become mindful of the good people in their lives. On this anniversary, I would like to share these activities and this book with all of you, and send out a prayer for peace.

You can download the activities and read reviews at our website—www.threepebblepress.com.

Thank you for serving the children. We need a world full of good people like you.
